Meeting with the Rector, College of Foreign Languages, University of Da Nang

Briefing Notes:

Background

I have been commissioned by The Atlantic Philanthropies (AP) to undertake an assessment of the impact that The University of Queensland Vietnam Coursework Masters Scholarship Program and Doctoral Development Program, funded by AP over the period 2000 - 2006, has had on the professional and personal lives of the Program's Alumni and the contributions that they have made and continue to make to their employing organisation, local community and the nation of Vietnam.

As part of the Project, alumni have been requested to complete an on-line survey. A number of those who completed the survey are being interviewed.

Many of these scholarship alumni were and still are academic staff of the College of Foreign Languages of the University of Da Nang. Indeed, there were approximately 15 such staff who successfully undertook the Coursework Masters Program (CMSP) and approximately a further 15 who undertook the Doctoral Development Program (DDP). Ten staff completed the online survey. Interviews are to be conducted with a selected number of these staff.

Of those who undertook the CMSP, quite a number have subsequently obtained a PhD degree, whilst almost all of those in the DDP have since graduated with a PhD from a Vietnamese University and a number now hold senior positions within the University of Da Nang.

A significant number of UD staff were also recipients of an English for Academic Purposes Program scholarship, which was delivered through the UD-UQ English Language Institute located on the main campus of the UD.

I was intimately involved with AP's philanthropic support for UQ over the period 1999 to 2009 and, in particular, the many initiatives that UQ got involved in Vietnam at the time (in my role as UQ's Deputy Vice-Chancellor and Vice-President (International and Development)). This included working closely with the then Presidents of UD and with the Da Nang Peoples Committee.

Purpose of the Meeting

The purpose of the meeting is to gain the perspectives of the Rector on the contributions that the academic staff of the UD College of Foreign Languages, who were recipients of the Atlantic Philanthropies Scholarships to undertake Coursework Masters Degree Programs or Doctoral Development Programs at UQ, have made to the CFL, to UD, to the wider Da Nang community and to Vietnam since their return to Da Nang.
